Case can be made that Beans $ZSH24 is completing small inverted H&S. This small pattern is somewhat complicated b/c H&S is part of larger trading range

My thinking behind buying Canadian Dollars goes as follows:
Oct 28 Update featured this chart. So, lower boundary of weekly chart comes into play as completion or possible failure

Hard rally on Thursday clarified wedge. The wedge alone would not have enticed me to go long. But the wedge PLUS the possible failed lower boundary of rectangle PLUS the arguable closing price completion of wedge put trade on my radar

Last Day Rule of rectangle was Oct 25. Also, Nov 2 was set-up day for 3DTSR. Thus, move above Oct 25 high was entry. I did not want to risk to Nov 2 low, but instead chose low of last full 6-hr bar within wedge (stop at .7234) for 42 BP risk

British Pounds $G6B_F completed symmetrical triangle bottom
