Greetings. Back from my trip to my doctor. Diagnosis -- two total hip replacements needed

Any market questions? If so, use this thread.

Best of luck Peter. Hopefully that will put a spring in your step (2 springs!). You commented recently so no need if nothing new. I'd be interested in your thoughts on \$BTC. Also looking at \$CVNA wkly for a H&S but waiting on right shoulder to complete. Would you see it that way

I am thinking this is just a shake out in BTC, but we had a massive move so a correction is welcomed. I am flat from swing trading standpoint (Prop Account). Hope we get a continuation pattern of some sort. Massive invert H&S possible in CVNA

Stay Strong, Peter! In your statistics, what do you consider wins, the trades that meet a specific return, or all positive ones, even if they are close to BE?

Mark, long term bull on BTC. I think 39,000 should hold on corrections, but with Bitcoin it is always anyone's guess

Would rather be buying something moving into new highs without so much supply overhead

New hips will be good hips! May I ask, low sulphur gasoil futures, it could be a descending wedge. Could it also be a horn top?

FactorMembers @factor_members · Dec 12

Could be either. I am hesitant to be too bearish on energy which is why it is probably the outcome

Hi Peter, good luck with the double total hip replacements. My surfacing hip replacement procedure significantly improved my quality of life; I wish the same for you.

About trading, I didn't see anything about Coffee in the weekly update, still long?

Greetings from Amstedam

Wow, had I know you were in Amsterdam we could have gotten together in May for coffee. I am long 50% in London Coffee. I am preparing a Tweet on Coffee to be issued in a few minutes Something potentially massive in London Coffee. I reestablished a 50% position having exited a 100% position on Dec 8.

Scalping bottom in SOFRs

Congrats to a few Factor members who I know are/were short Sugar. Nice trade indeed. We had a doji foot shot today
